Country	The country that the survey respondents are from. This data is from a survey designed by Focus 2030, Women Deliver, and the Development Engagement Lab, which explores attitudes towards gender equality. The survey was carried out online between July - August 2020 (during the COVID-19 pandemic) and surveyed respondents across 17 countries.

Question	The question that respondents were asked. The survey included a total of 23 questions, however, we have used a subset of this data, to highlight the following question: "Thinking about the list of reasons below, which, if any, do you personally think are the main reasons why women may not be equal to men in your country?"
Response	Respondents could select up to three options from a list of nine presented (plus 'none' or 'don't know'). There is a row for each of the responses: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> - Because women and men are not equally represented in politics - Because of religion and culture that do not treat women and men as equals - Because boys and girls are treated differently growing up - Because women and men have different employment opportunities - Because unpaid care, domestic work, and parental responsibilities are not shared equally between women and men - Because women and men cannot exercise the same level of control over their bodies (for example access to contraception, delaying childbirth) - Because crises (for example conflict, natural disasters, pandemics) have unequal effects on women and men - Because men tend to be physically stronger than women - Because girls do not receive the same access to education as boys - None of these - Don't know
% of respondents	The % of respondents who selected the relevant response as a main reason why women may not be equal to men in their country.
